Investing involves risk. Principal loss is possible. As an ETF, the fund may trade at a premium or discount to NAV. Shares of any ETF are bought and sold at market price (not NAV) and are not individually redeemed from the Fund. The Fund is new with a limited operating history.

All ETF products are subject to risk, which may result in the loss of principal. Sector ETF products are subject to sector risks and non-diversification risks, which may result in performance fluctuations that are more extreme than fluctuations in the overall stock market.

The Fund focuses much of its investment in specific sectors, including communications, consumer discretionary, consumer staples, energy, financial, health care, industrial, materials, natural resources, real estate, technology and utilities. Large market moves in any one or more of these sectors could have a material financial impact on the fund.

In particular, the communications sector is vulnerable to the potential obsolescence of products and services due to technological advancement and innovation of competitors to those chosen as fund investments. Additionally, the energy and utilities sectors are subject to future technological advancements and governmental restrictions globally.

The fund relies on the timely and successful allocation of investment resources by the advisor and/or sub-advisor, and there is no assurance that the Fund will achieve its investment objective.

Investors should carefully consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of the Revere Sector Opportunity ETF. This and other important information about the Fund is contained in the prospectus, which can be obtained at www.rspyetf.com or by calling 866-904-0406. The prospectus should be read carefully before investing.
